Greasy Texas rock n roll

Thunderosa is a bit of a departure from what we normally feature on Trashy Tuesday. We usually go with some lo-fi garage rock or blues, but while Thunderosa doesn't fit the general profile for Trashy Tuesday, I think this band is trashy enough to be featured here.

On its ReverbNation page, Thunderosa bills itself as "greasy Texas stomp." I ask you, loyal reader. Do you expect me to ignore a band that identifies itself that way? You know I cannot. So what makes this band a fit for this particular slot? Well, this band isn't trashy like most of the lo-fi bands we feature. It's trashy in the way Nashville Pussy is. This is a band that believes in loud guitars and vocals in songs about hot rods and drag racing. If you want a good example of the trashy aspect of this band, listen to "Crushed." You know who I think would like this song? Early Cuyler from Squidbillies. Frankly, I want to see an episode of Squidbillies that features this song.

Greasy is really a good way to describe this band, and not just because the band has a couple songs about cars on its ReverbNation page. This band manages to blend southern rock with heavy-guitar driven rock and roll (thus the Nashville Pussy comparison) and somehow greasy is probably the best way to describe it. If you want some good, loud rock and roll, get to know this band.

This guy would love "Crushed"
